Pleasant New Year's Dinner.

For a number of years past T. C. Mofiat & Co., the merchant tailors, have given a dinner to their employes in the salesroom and office. Yesterday the annual dinner took place at the Brunswick restaurant. The employes were all present, with the members of the firm, and all sat down to a bounteous repast, gotten up in Entler's best style. The affair was very informal, more importance being attached to comfort than to style, and a joiller and more congenial party it would have been hard to find yesterday. The custom is a pleasant one, and no doubt many an employe of other business establishments will find it in his heart to wish that the fashion might become more general.

The new skating rink, on Virginia street, Island, was opened yesterday afternoon. There was a good crowd present of both skaters and spectators. The Misses Paloquin and Bemis, of Boston, champion lady skaters, gave a very pleasing exhibition. This was repeated last evening, when the crowd in attendance was even larger than in the afternoon. Many high compliments on the rink and management were heard. The management had set apart the afternoon session for ladies exclusively, but they have concluded to rescind this rule and admit gentlemen and ladies to all sessions.

The newly elected officers of J. W. Holliday Post, No. 127, G. A. R., will be installed this evening and the various committees for the ensuing year appointed. It is proposed to inaugurate a series of entertainments during the winter, the first of which will probably be one of the Post's famous "Camp-fires." As the Department meeting will be held in this city in March next the members of the local Post will doubtless arrange to give the visiting comrades a grand reception. ing celebrated by a full dress afternoon german. This custom inaugurated three years ago has become so popular here that said son it is a wonder the social circles of other though cities have not adopted it. The occasion affords an opportunity to pass pleasantly what would probably be a dull atternoon otherwise, and also a chance to meet all of one's friends and extend to them the com-pliments of the season. It relieves the ladies from the burden incident to formal receiving; another reason for their popu-larity here is, that they also afford an op-portunity to entertain the visitors who are usually present in the city at this season of the year.

Yesterday's affair was directed by "The Yesterday's affair was directed by "The German." The hours were from two to six o'clock. The collillon was formed about four o'clock, previous to which time waltzes, lancers and polkas enjoyed the attention of nearly all. The german was led by Mr. Howell and Miss Harrison, assisted at times by Mr. George Baird. The figures were pretty ones and were very much enjoyed not only by the dancers but by the spectators. The favors were the latest oddities, and many of them were quite handsome. Kramer's music was nover better than it was yesterday, and it was difficult to keep from moving while it was playing.

The number present was fully as large as on previous occasions, but there were not so many in the German as it was exnot so many in the German as it was expected there would be. The costumes of the ladies that danced, in nearly every case were made up of light-tinted silks and satins; many were extremely handsome. Nearly all the gentleman were in full dress, and all this of course conspired to make a pretty scene as the wearers moved in the dance. As will be seen from the list printed below of those there, there were a large number there merely as spectators. They enjoyed looking on fully as much as the others. A few good seats are left at Baunfer's music store. Of Keene's Marbeth a St. Louis paper says: "It would give him high and lasting fame if he never acted another role in his life." Another paper says: "As Macbeth Mr. Keene stands second to no living actor." His conception of the part differs slightly from tradition, but hero and there he has revived some now obsolete readings with excellent taste, judgement and effect. Viewing the embodiment altogether, it is a symmetrical and thrilling one, and saturated—as a person that in the same of the sam

Yesterday morning while lounging about the office of the McLure House exchanging the compliments of the season with his friends and on the lay for something to write up, an INTELLIORNCER reporter ran across another former Wheelingite who is now on the stage. The reporter was looking over the register, when a gentleman came up and asked a question about some old time residents. One word led to another until the gentleman volunteered the information that he was a former resident to the first of the stage. another until the gentleman volunteered the information that he was a former resident of this city. The man of news introduced himselfand the gentleman presented his card. From it the reporterlearned that he was Mr. W.T. Stephens, one of the proprietors of this week's attraction at Charley Shay's Academy of Music, playing "Saved From the Storm." Mr. Stephens is also owner and trainer of the wonderful dogs which act so intelligently in the play. Mr. Stephens was born here in 1847 at the hotel now known as the Howell House, known in those days as the St. Charles. His father was the proprietor of the hotel, which was a leading hostelry. Mr. Stephens left here when he was about 12 years old, and this is his first visit to this city since that time. His father became almost ruined about the time he left; in, fact this was the cause of Mr. Stephens' departure. His father was a bondsman for Jeff Sankson, formerly Chief of Police here. Sankson behaved in such a manner, according to Mr. Stephens story, that his bondsman became involved. While Mr. Stephens has been here this week he has found several old citizens who knew him in the long ago and remembered him now. He remembers the big dinner given by Col. TELEGRAPH TALK. iome Interesting Information Given by

Manager Tracy, of the Western Union Telegraph office in this city, dropped in at the Intelligencer office yesterday to make a New Year's call, and in the course of conversation he referred to the special dispatch from New York in yesterday's INSPACTATION NEW YORK IN YESTERIAY'S

a reduction of charges for the transmission of messages over the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph Company's wires.

"Do you know what that amounts to?"

"No."

"Well I'lliell you. It does not amount.

"Well, I'll tell you. It does not amount to anything but a big free blow for the Baltimore & Ohio Company."

Baltimore & Ohio Company."

"How is that?"

"Why, those low rates given this morning are only between through points where that company enters into competition with us. To compensate for this reduction, they pile up charges on local business to and from points where there is no other telegraph line. A short time ago they announced a reduction of rates on all local business to 25 cents for ten words and one cent for each additional word. But on December 1 they put up word. But on December 1 they put up the rate to local points over 100 miles distant to 40 cents for the first ten words and tant to 40 cents for the first ten words and two cents for each word over ten. This was not telegraphed over the country or published broadcast. The rate for messa-ges to Maryland is 50 cents. Now, we give equitable and fair rates to all points, competition or no competition."

A BIG YEAR'S BUSINESS. "How is the telegraph business here nowadays?" Mr. Tracy was asked. "Very good. The business in 1884 ex-cels the record of any former year. There cels the record of any former year. There was a good run throughout the year, excepting December, when business slackened up a little. There was a decided falling off in receipts in the latter half of the year, butthis was occasioned by a decided cut in rates. Business increased slightly. Our charges were reduced from five to twenty-fives cent on each message, which naturally made a big difference in a financial way."

"Is there any growth of the newspaper special business here?"

John Mitchner testified that he was standing in the street with Griffith when Emmet passed, Griffithsaid: "There goes 'King Tom.'" Griffith-explained what he meant by the term, and remarked that if Mitchell ever shot him he must shoot David Burdett was not a strong witnes David Burdett was not a strong witness for the defense. He had been employed at Grifflith's two years ago. Grifflith said to him that Mitchell was a dangerous man and had made threats against him, and that while not afraid of him he feared that he would waylay and kill him. Grifflith once asked the witness to go to town with him, as he feared that Emmett would waylay him.

Cabel Barrett was digging potatoes with the defendant. Griffith passed and Emmett saluted him with his customary "Colonel." Griffith made no reply bu "Colonel." Griffith made no reply but went on for a short distance, when he stopped and demanded of Mitchell what he was laughing at. Emmett replied, "Because you didn't speak." Griffith answered in an insolent manner and Mitchell responded, "I speak to you as a dog."

James McMillan, who originally surveyed the road between the Mitchell and Griffith farms, testified as to his manner of laving it out.

On the whole it cannot be said that the evidence produced to-day is at all strong for the defense; but there is said to be some forthcoming that will be very favorable to the prisoner, and it is very likely that the verdict will not be higher than manslauchter.

noon and evening is very favorable to Mitchell. His brothers, Alfred and Wil-son, were on the stand all evening. To them Griffith said: "Boys, I'll have to kill him," and persisted that the "King Tom" story was true. The defense will rest in the morning and the State's rebuttal evi-dence will be finished by noon.

Sugar Planters Discouraged. New OBLEANS, LA., Jan. 1 .- The Times Democrat's Franklin special says: Sugar making is closed in this parish. The result is disastrous to the planters. The yield with few exceptions has not been satisfactory. This coupled with the low price of the production has discouraged the depressed planters. The small yield is due to the extended drought of July, August and September, producing short cane with a heavy woody fibre and little
